

Understanding the Report Card

Report Card Feature

To access StudyDog's reporting feature, start on the main StudyDog activities page, and click on the Report Card link in the upper right-hand corner of the screen.

Lessons not mastered are display with green/red button icon on the main screen (see below).

 Mastery not reached (Recommend Repeat Lesson)  Mastery reached (Completed)

The percentage gauge (below) displays the accumulative score of all lessons completed so far. This gauge is a good indicator of overall success in the program. Mastery is achieved in a lesson if 75% or more of the responses are correct.

Mastery Level

Points & Lessons

Lessons that do not meet mastery may be repeated as many times as necessary to successfully achieve mastery. While the Lesson buttons shown on the main screen indicate individual Lesson progress, it is a good idea to check the gauge to assess overall progress. The objective is to keep the pointer in the green area, and to repeat lesson not mastered. Lessons not mastered are display with green/red button icon on the main screen (see below).
